1. Introduction:

Weekday Eucharists and the Calendar

In the section entitled “Concerning the Service of the Church,” the Book of Common Prayer identifies the normative services of the Episcopal Church:

The Holy Eucharist, the principal act of Christian worship on the Lord’s Day and other major Feasts, and Daily Morning and Evening Prayer, as set forth in this book, are the regular services appointed for public worship in the Church. (BCP, 13)

Eucharistic propers (collects, Scripture readings, and proper prefaces) are provided in the Book of Common Prayer for the days when the Eucharist is the principal service. The Calendar section at the front of the Prayer Book identifies these eucharistic feasts by placing them into three categories, ranked by priority: Principal Feasts, Sundays, and Holy Days. Normatively, on all other days, Morning and Evening Prayer are the Church’s official public services. However, as celebration of the Eucharist has become more frequent, many congregations and other communities of faith now celebrate weekday Eucharists on days for which the Prayer Book does not assign propers.

The Prayer Book provides a range of possible options for the celebration of the Eucharist on these ferial or non-feast days. These options include the celebration of:

- a Major Feast that has fallen elsewhere in the week (BCP, 17);
- a commemoration listed in the Calendar (BCP, 18);
- a commemoration not appointed in the Church’s Calendar by using the Common of Saints (BCP, 18);
- an Ember Day or Rogation Day (BCP, 18);

- the season, by using the propers of the preceding Sunday (BCP, 158);
- the weekdays of Holy Week and Easter, by using the propers appointed in the Book of Common Prayer;
- an occasion provided for in the propers for Various Occasions (BCP, 18).

In addition, since 1979 Lesser Feasts and Fasts has appointed weekday propers for seasons of the church year.

To facilitate the use of these authorized options, this resource contains weekday propers for the seasons of the church year (the temporal cycle), the Common of Saints (the sanctoral cycle), and Various Occasions from the Prayer Book and from resources authorized since the adoption of the Prayer Book. The propers in this resource are grouped into three sections by type for the temporal cycle, the sanctoral cycle, and various occasions.

Directions for the appropriate use of the various kinds of propers are provided at the head of each section. Here are some general guides for use:

- These propers are not intended for use on Principal Feasts, Sundays, and Holy Days (BCP, 15–17).
- If a Major Feast that falls in the week will not be celebrated with a Eucharist on its indicated day, it is most appropriate that a midweek service observe the Major Feast in order to retain the Prayer Book’s emphasis on the significance of these occasions.
- “Feasts appointed on fixed days in the Calendar are not observed on the days of Holy Week or of Easter Week,” nor are propers for Various Occasions used within this period (BCP, 18).
- In keeping with ancient tradition, the observance of Lenten weekdays ordinarily takes precedence over Lesser Feasts occurring during this season.
- Since the triumphs of the saints are a continuation and manifestation of the Paschal victory of Christ, the celebration of saints’ days is particularly appropriate during the Easter season.

The 2015 General Convention authorized this liturgical resource to make readily available a variety of options for weekday celebrations of the Eucharist.

2. The Temporal Cycle: Seasons of the church year

Introduction

The mid-twentieth-century liturgical renewal movement made a great impact on the liturgical reforms of the Roman Catholic Second Vatican Council and on the subsequent revisions of many Western families of Christianity, including the Episcopal Church and our Book of Common Prayer. In reaching back to the ancient foundations of Christian liturgy, the liturgical renewal movement reminded the Church universal of the vital importance of Sundays as the primordial feast day and the weekly feast of Christ's resurrection.

As Sundays have become more central, the seasons of the church year—the temporal cycle—have become correspondingly more important. The celebration of seasonal ferial days with weekday celebrations of the Eucharist is a way to reinforce the importance of Sundays and seasons within the local congregation.

It is appropriate to use the propers appointed for Sunday or a Principal Feast through the rest of the following week. However, in places where weekday eucharistic services are frequent, this practice can become repetitive. In order to retain the emphasis on the temporal cycle yet still provide rich fodder for spiritual reflection and growth, a weekday eucharistic lectionary with seasonally appropriate scriptural texts is provided here. The seasons of Lent and Easter are provided with a number of collects for the weekdays; in other seasons, the collect remains as appointed on the preceding Sunday or Principal Feast, as the Prayer Book directs.

The weekday eucharistic lectionary offered here is adapted from the weekday eucharistic lectionary used in the Roman Catholic Church and the Anglican Church of Canada. This scheme provides one set of readings for the seasons of Advent, Christmas, Lent, and Easter. Two sets of readings are provided for the seasons after Epiphany and after Pentecost (sometimes referred to as “Ordinary Time”), to be used in alternating years: Year 1 is used in odd-numbered years, and Year 2 in even-numbered years.

Additionally, a set of alternate six-week thematic readings suitable for use in Ordinary Time (first authorized by the 1994 General Convention) is located after the presentation of the sequential scheme.

The Daily Office and the Temporal Cycle

The Daily Office is rooted in the movement of the temporal cycle; this cycle is its natural habitat. In particular, the principle of the continuous reading of Scripture is only enacted when the temporal cycle is followed. Too many interruptions lose the thread of the sacred narratives and prevent the formative encounter with Scripture that has been an historic gift of this discipline.

Only Major Feasts are intended to alter the Daily Office lectionary cycle. The readings found in the Common of Saints and the Propers for Various Occasions are for use at the Eucharist or for devotional reading, and are not intended to displace the appointed daily reading.

Some worshipping communities regularly use the Sunday collect as the Collect of the Day in the Office through the subsequent week. The repetition helps secure the seasonal themes and perspectives in the mind of the Church. When a sanctoral collect is used in the Office as the Collect of the Day, the temporal collect of the preceding Sunday or Principal Feast may be used after the Collect of the Day in order to maintain a connection with the Church’s seasons.

Weekdays of Advent and Christmas until the Baptism of Christ

Concerning the Proper

Proper Lessons and Psalms are provided for the Eucharist for the weekdays of Advent and Christmas to the First Sunday after Epiphany. These Propers are also suitable for use at Liturgies of the Word held on those days.

During the weeks of Advent 1 through 3, the first Readings from Isaiah point to the coming of God's reign. In the fourth week of Advent, the first Readings are in thematic harmony with the Gospel lections and reflect on the sacred history of God's people in light of God's coming reign.

The Gospel Readings for the first three weeks of Advent point to Jesus' words and acts as fulfilling the expectations of God's coming reign. Lections for the fourth week are taken from the first two chapters of Matthew and Luke and prepare the Church for the Christmas celebration. The first Readings for the weekdays following Christmas Day provide a sequential reading of the First Letter of John, which reflects on the significance of Jesus' life for the Church. The Gospel lections recall the early events of Jesus' life and the beginning of his ministry that revealed his authority and power.

Any of the Readings may be lengthened at discretion, and the selections from the Psalter may be lengthened or shortened.

Where there is not a daily celebration of the Eucharist, the Proper appointed for any weekday may be used on any other weekday in the same week.

On days of optional observance on the Calendar, the Collect, Lessons, Psalm and Preface are ordinarily those of the saint. Where there is a daily celebration, however, the weekday Lessons and Psalm may be substituted.

The Collect of the previous Sunday may be used on ordinary weekdays, except that the third collect for the Nativity of Our Lord:

Christmas Day is used for any weekdays between Holy Innocents' Day and the First Sunday after Christmas Day. Any of the sets of Proper Lessons for Christmas Day may serve for any weekdays between Holy Innocents' Day and the First Sunday after Christmas Day.

Weekdays of Lent

Concerning the Proper

Proper Collects, Lessons, and Psalms are provided for the Eucharist on the weekdays of Lent. These Propers are also suitable for use at Liturgies of the Word (preaching services) held on those days. The First Lesson is invariably from the Old Testament, and is chosen to match the appointed Gospel.

Any of the Readings may be lengthened at discretion. Suggested lengthenings are shown in parentheses. The selections from the Psalter may be lengthened or shortened.

Where there is not a daily celebration of the Eucharist, the Proper appointed for any weekday may be used on any other weekday in the same week.

In keeping with ancient tradition, the observance of Lenten weekdays ordinarily takes precedence over Lesser Feasts occurring during this season. It is appropriate, however, to name the saint whose day it is in the Prayers of the People, and, if desired, to use the Collect of the saint to conclude the Prayers.

Weekdays of Easter Season

Concerning the Proper

Proper Lessons and Psalms are provided for the weekdays of Easter Season. The First Lessons consist of a semi-continuous reading of the Acts of the Apostles (which is an ancient tradition in this season), the earlier portions of which are appointed in the Prayer Book Lectionary for the weekdays of Easter Week. The Readings from the Gospel according to John are chosen for their appropriateness to the season, and complement the Readings from this Gospel assigned to the season of Lent.

Any of the Readings may be lengthened at discretion. The selections from the Psalter may be lengthened or shortened.

Where there is not a daily celebration of the Eucharist, the Proper appointed for any weekday may be used on any other weekday in the same week.

Since the triumphs of the saints are a continuation and manifestation of the Paschal victory of Christ, the celebration of saints' days is particularly appropriate during this season. On such days, therefore, the Collect, Lessons, Psalm, and Preface are ordinarily those of the saint. Where there is a daily celebration, however, the weekday Lessons and Psalm may be substituted.

A corpus of Collects is provided for use as the Collect of the Day on weekdays which are not saints' days. These Collects are also appropriate for use at the conclusion of the Prayers of the People during this season, including the Sundays.

The Collects which follow are particularly appropriate for use at the times indicated.

The Lessons and Psalms for this season are on pages 70-75.

From Monday after 2 Easter until 4 Easter

Preface of the Ascension

Ordinary Time (the Seasons after Epiphany and Pentecost): A Two-Year Weekday Eucharistic Lectionary

(Adapted from The Book of Alternative Services of the Anglican Church of Canada)

Concerning the Lectionary

This Weekday Lectionary offers a two-year cycle of sequential readings and is intended for use on the weekdays following the First Sunday after the Epiphany and the Day of Pentecost.

The Lectionary is arranged in a two-year cycle. The Year-1 cycle is used in odd-numbered years, and the Year-2 cycle is used in even-numbered years. The numbered Propers for the weeks following the Day of Pentecost, and for some weeks in Epiphany season, correspond to the numbering and dating system used in the Book of Common Prayer.

Two daily readings are provided. All references to readings are based on the New Revised Standard Version of the Bible. Versification varies among translations; if another translation is being used, the NRSV should be checked.

All references to psalms are based on the Psalter of the Book of Common Prayer. Verse selections are suggested for many psalms, but selections may be lengthened or shortened as appropriate.

The Collect of the previous Sunday may be used on ordinary weekdays.

A Six-Week Eucharistic Lectionary with Daily Themes and Suggested Collects

(Adapted from Weekday Readings, a daily lectionary authorized by the 1994 General Convention)

Concerning the Lectionary

This Lectionary offers thirty-six sets of thematic readings intended for use on the weekdays following the First Sunday after the Epiphany and the Day of Pentecost. These readings may be used in sequence or as a corpus of texts and themes available in whatever order the celebrant and worshipping community wish to use them.

Each Proper includes two brief lessons and a psalm; the psalm reflects the theme of the two lessons. The brevity of the readings invites a brief reflective homily, silence, or the reading of non-biblical meditative material.

The suggested collects, with the page numbers for their traditional and contemporary forms, are from the Book of Common Prayer.

3. The Sanctoral Cycle: Commemorations of Saints

Introduction

The Baptismal Covenant grounds the theology of the Book of Common Prayer. All those baptized into Christ participate in the same risen life with him and together form the mystical Body of Christ that is the Church. In the Prayers of the People at each Eucharist, we lift up to God the whole state of Christ's Church; in addition to praying for those living, we pray for all who have died and pray that we may share with all the saints in God's eternal kingdom. In baptism, we are joined with Christ in bonds that cannot be broken—even by death. Those who sleep in Christ are not just part of the Church of the past, they are part of the Church of the present as well.

From its earliest days the Church has rejoiced to recognize and commemorate those faithful departed who were extraordinary or even heroic servants of God and of God's people for the sake, and after the example, of their Savior Jesus Christ. By this recognition and commemoration, their devoted service endures in the Spirit, even as their example and fellowship continue to nurture the pilgrim Church on its way to God.

There are a variety of views concerning who and what a saint is: some would identify a saint as any Christian who has struggled to lead a faithful life; others reserve the title for those who have demonstrated heroic virtue on account of their depth of union with Christ and who now participate in the nearer presence of God. There are also a variety of views concerning how the saints relate to the present church: some see them as figures of the past who have left us good examples of leading the Christian life; others see them as present participants in the life of Church, still engaged in the Church's ministry of intercession for ourselves and the world.

When a local community decides to commemorate a particular historical individual, whether he or she is included in A Great Cloud of Witnesses: A Calendar of Commemorations or not, the materials here provide the props necessary for the celebration. For each individual found in A Great Cloud of Witnesses, that resource offers a collect and indicates the proper preface to be used at the Eucharist. For individuals not found in A Great Cloud of Witnesses, an appropriate Common of Saints selected from this resource can provide a collect and indicate which proper preface to use. In either case, appropriate readings may be selected from among the Commons that most closely reflect the saint's life, work, and witness.

For some Episcopalians, an important part of the lively experience of the saints consists of praying alongside them. The principle of Christ as the sole mediator between humanity and God is a deep and important one within our tradition; prayer alongside the saints does not and should not compromise this principle in any way. Rather, praying alongside the saints grows out of the importance of baptism and taking seriously the implications of a baptismal ecclesiology.

The Daily Office and the Sanctoral Cycle

On the one hand, saints were historically honored in the pre-Reformation Church in the Office, providing centuries of precedent for continuing this custom. On the other hand, the number and type of sanctoral celebrations eventually obscured the praying of the full Psalter and continually interrupted the reading of Scripture. Thomas Cranmer lamented this situation in the preface to the first Book of Common Prayer (1549; see BCP 1979, 866). Remembering the saints in the Office is certainly appropriate as long as it does not take away from the continuous reading of Scripture or obscure the rhythms of the temporal cycle.

The readings appointed within this resource are for use at the Eucharist and for devotional reading. They are not intended to displace the readings appointed for the Daily Office.

The collect provided for a Day of Optional Observance may be used as the Collect of the Day in the Office at the discretion of the officiant. When a sanctoral collect is used in the Office as the Collect of the Day, the collect of the preceding Sunday or Principal Feast may be used after the Collect of the Day in order to maintain a connection with the Church's seasons.

The Common of Saints from the Book of Common Prayer

Concerning the Common of Saints

The festival of a saint is observed in accordance with the rules of precedence set forth in the Calendar of the church year.

At the discretion of the Celebrant, and as appropriate, one of the following Commons may be used

- a) at the commemoration of a saint listed in the Calendar, in place of the Proper for Lesser Feasts
- b) at the patronal festival or commemoration of a saint not listed in the Calendar.

Any of the sets of Lessons assigned to a given Common may be used with any of the Collects.

4. Various Occasions

Introduction

The original design for the 1979 Book of Common Prayer included a set of eucharistic propers for Special Occasions. Now referred to as propers for Various Occasions, they are the direct heirs of medieval votive propers and fill the need for special celebrations for either intercessory or devotional purposes. They reflect concerns or celebrations that are either particularly pertinent to the ongoing life of the Church or are recurrent enough in the life of the Church to be necessary.

Since these propers were composed for the 1979 Prayer Book, new occasions and concerns have been identified that connect to modern church life. This book continues the use of propers introduced in 2009 in Holy Women, Holy Men.

These propers for Various Occasions may be used on any weekday or on a Sunday outside of the principal service, “subject to the rules of precedence governing Principal Feasts, Sundays, and Holy Days” (BCP, 15–17) and provided “that none of Propers appointed for Various Occasions is used as a substitute for, or in addition to, the Proper appointed for the Principal Feasts” (BCP, 18).

During Lent, the propers For the Ministry I, II, and III may be used on the traditional Ember Days (Wednesday, Friday, and Saturday following the First Sunday in Lent). Other propers for Various Occasions are not ordinarily used during the season of Lent in order to preserve the distinctive character of the season.

In the Sarum liturgies before the time of the Reformation, certain votive propers were used regularly in a weekly cycle. The first seven propers of our Prayer Book recall this sequence, substituting the proper “For All Baptized Christians” in the position historically occupied by a votive in honor of the Blessed Virgin Mary.

The Daily Office and the Propers for Various Occasions

The collects for Various Occasions are appropriate for use in the time designated for “authorized intercessions and thanksgivings” following the prayer for mission in the Daily Office. The scriptural readings for Various Occasions are not intended to displace the regular cycle of readings appointed for the Daily Office.

Various Occasions

For optional use, when desired, subject to the rules set forth in the Calendar of the church year.
